YES—WHY?

Editor of the Silver State: It is an extraordinary thing that a man who is so much interested in the welfare of his country should be so much interested in the welfare of his country. MANDAMUS PROCEEDINGS.

Thursday morning Messrs. Woodburn and Coffin appeared before the Board of State Examiners and asked that they advertise the Constitutional Amendments voted on at the special election of 1890. The Board, represented by Governor Stevenson and Attorney General Alexander, declined to order the amendments advertised again, and mandamus proceedings were at once begun in the Supreme Court.

Messrs. Woodburn and Coffin attacked the constitutionality of the special election law passed by the last Legislature, on the grounds that there was no provision made for registration at the Constitution provided. They claimed that if the election was void it was time to find it out now so that the defects could be remedied at the next general election.

Many of the amendments adopted by the people were of great importance. There was so much difference of opinion regarding the matter that no one could be certain when the next Legislature met.

The attorneys presented a long array of authorities to show that the law was not in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution relating to elections and if the dead registration list of 1887 could be legalized into law, then why not that of 1884?

Attorney General Alexander admitted that the question was a very serious one, but that the amendments, even if improperly submitted, were submitted in good faith, the people voted on them in good faith and the result was final.

The Court took the case under advisement.

"Doctor, Take Your Own Medicine." EDITOR SENEVILLE. In your issue of the 12th inst I read some extracts from Mr. Newlands, of San Francisco, Cal., Washington, D. C., and Reno, Nev., in which he accounts for some of the causes of the "poor condition of Nevada." He also prescribes a sovereign balm, namely, "economy in the State and county governments."

Quite right, Mr. Cosmopolitan Newlands, of California, District of Columbia and Nevada, but how do you reconcile your own action? Your Secretary is Mr. Isaac Froham, who travels with you and attends to your private affairs as well as your public aspirations for Senator from Nevada, or if you cannot get that fast a job, the next best thing here in Washington—Member of Congress. Now Mr. Froham is the Land Agent of Nevada, and receives one thousand dollars to attend to Nevada's business here; yet you make him your Secretary, displace him his time which belongs to Nevada and ought to be spent here in Washington, and yet you preach "economy" in Nevada's State governments. Please contribute your share in practice; do not take it all out in fault finding and preaching.

IVAN O. MICHELS.

EUREKA EKLINGS. SENEVILLE, July 26th.

During the present week the Eureka and Pacific Railroad Company shipped 434 tons of ore to the Salt Lake City smelters.

From present appearances there is going to be considerable contention for several of the county offices in this county.

H. C. Reno, a representative of Salt Lake City mining capitalists, arrived here last Tuesday, and will remain here for some time.

To date the Eureka Con. Mining Company has paid a total of $512,500 in dividends. The one just declared will be paid August 5th.

The impression prevails that we are soon to have a permanent resident Episcopal minister here, as sufficient funds have been subscribed for the support of one. The movement is a commendable one.

We understand that the Eureka Con. Mining Company is bidding for the ore of this district and is willing to pay as high rates as the Salt Lake City smelters, less the cost of transportation to that place.

A gentleman arrived here a few days ago from Denver. His mission was to see what were the chances for the erection of a temple here, and we are informed that he was pleased with the outlook. On leaving he said he would return here soon.

Thursday, the 24th inst., was the sixteenth anniversary of the big flood at this place, when eighteen persons were drowned. However, this year it failed to materialize, though the thermometer ranged at 90 degrees and the weather was cloudy.

Swallowed a Tooth-Brush. The following tough one, of course, comes from the Carson Appeal. Yesterday a young fellow that was killed for Gardner's butcher shop was cut open and its stomach found to contain an old tooth-brush which had been lost over two years ago.

It appears that Young Gardner was up in Hope valley camping out, where he lost the tooth-brush, which had his initials on the handle. He hunted high and low for it and as he left remarked "Oh, I'll find it sometime. I never lose anything."

His words came true, for he was present when the steer was cut open. He is not using the tooth-brush any more, but he was sort of pleased to run across it again.

The Ghost of an Old Case. The case of Francis G. Newlands, trustee et al. vs. Davis S. Terry et al., a suit growing out of the Sharron case, was called in the United States Circuit Court in San Francisco, on Tuesday. By consent of the respective counsel an order was made that the testimony be opened and published and the above entitled case submitted to the Court for consideration and decision. On motion of W. F. Herrin, counsel for complainant, it was ordered that the injunction pendente lite, granted on January 29, 1889, be vacated and dissolved.

Chicken croquettes made out of veal are not as palatable as when made out of poultry, but then, if one doesn't know the difference.

COLONIAL DAMES OF AMERICA.

A Woman's Club to Promote Patriotism and Conserve Aristocracy.

The bold statement that another woman's society is about to be organized is not particularly thrilling. As in these days the queens of creation so generally become queens of clubs, by reason of their membership in some association formed to promote social, religious, literary, industrial or artistic aims, and having thereby vindicated more or less their claim to be considered clubbable creatures, no particular attention is paid to their movements in this direction.

But when to the announcement that a new club is about to be created there is coupled the intelligence that only women will be eligible whose ancestry is established by heredity—not acquired matrimonially or by purchase, like that of the colonel in "The Pirates"—interest is at once quickened, and it becomes fairly rampant when the whole scheme is unfolded and it appears that every member will have to make her calling and election sure by proving her direct descent from forefathers who emigrated to America prior to the year 1776, and who made their mark upon the time to the extent at least of being "considered worthy of esteem and renown."

It is intended that the proposed society shall be among women what the Order of the Cincinnati and the Sons of the Revolution are among men, and it will to a certain extent embody the principles of these societies. The aim of the organization will be "to commemorate the success of our glorious republic, to promote social intercourse and fellowship among its members now and in all the future, to inspire a genuine love of country in every heart within its range of influence, to labor to diffuse healthful and intelligent information relating to whatever concerns the past and tends to create popular interest in the men and events instrumental in the providing for us our precious institutions."

It will also be an obligation to collect and preserve manuscripts, traditions, relics and mementoes of the old times when the colonies were young and the forefathers lived and moved and had their being. It will be a sacred duty devolving upon the members to teach the younger generations as they arise to hold in loving remembrance the "brave days of old," and to honor the heroic men whose ability, valor, sufferings and achievements are beyond praise, and should excite the deepest reverence and the liveliest patriotism, "and to promote social intercourse and fellowship among its members."

This is the substance of a printed letter setting forth the scheme of the new society which is being quietly circulated among those who are undoubtedly and those who are presumably eligible to stand among the elect who propose to call themselves "The Colonial Dames of America."

The names of the originators of this patriotic and aristocratic corporation are not disclosed, but the blank in the "letter" which invites the woman to whom it is submitted to kindly communicate her willingness to be considered as a candidate by the committee of judges is variously filled out by several ladies whose family patronymic figures prominently in the annals of old, very old New York.—New York World.

Mrs. Curtis' Orchestra. Mrs. John G. Curtis, of this city, is the founder of one of the most remarkable orchestras in existence. It is composed of men, women and children of musical ability, gathered from poor families, who pay a very small fee for the instruction Mrs. Curtis provides. Theodore John, formerly conductor of the orchestra of Freiburg, Germany, has had charge of the amateurs for the last three years, and under his excellent instruction and the inspiration of the fair patroness several of the pupils have been able to fill positions in professional orchestras. Mrs. Curtis has used her drawing room and hall in East Thirty-fifth street for practice, and here too her proteges have played to fashionable companies for charity.—New York World.

A daughter of Gen. Lyon, the Connecticut hero who served in the Mexican and civil wars, and who left all his property to the government to assist in carrying on the latter war, has been found serving as a cook in a graders' camp near Denver, Colo., where her husband, an invalid, was a workman. It is stated, also, that the wife of Lincoln's first private secretary, Frank Milton, is a cook on the steamer St. Croix, on a western river.

Superintendent Porter discovered in his mail bag on Thursday a letter from Indiana reading thus: "Finding a baby without a name that was born just in time to have its nose counted, and the family undecided as to a name, the matter was finally left to me, whereupon I christened him Porter F. Crabb, the first after you and the second for myself."

When decanters and carafes become so discolored inside that shot or fine coals will not cleanse them, fill the bottle with finely chopped potato skins, cork tightly and let the bottle stand for three days, when the skins will ferment. Turn out and rinse. The bottle will be as bright and clean as when new.

Joseph Van Nostrand, aged 10 years, of Hooker, N. J., earned a parcel for a man on board the steamship Werra several days ago. The vessel left the wharf before he was aware of it and he has been carried across the ocean. A cable message has been sent to have him returned.

Miss Mitchell, of Kingston, a graduate of Queen's university, who received a license to practice medicine a couple of months ago, is the first woman in Canada to write M. D. after her name.

Chicken croquettes made out of veal are not as palatable as when made out of poultry, but then, if one doesn't know the difference.

The Summer of '90. Brown—We're going to have a hot summer. Merritt—Of course. We'll then be in the summer—Epoch.

An Iowa Coal Palace. Sept. 18 an exposition will be opened here in a building representing the great industry of this section of Iowa, coal mining, the principal material used being the product of these mines. The coal palace will be 260 feet in length, with an average width of 190 feet, the main tower lifting itself upward over 200 feet. It will be built with an architectural character of its own, and the whole structure will be veneered with coal, various unique designs being woven into the building of jet from the output of the various mines about Ottumwa. A miniature coal mine is to be one of the features of the palace. Into the mine a shaft will lead from the main tower, over 150 feet above.

The tower at its base will be over 40 feet square and be reached by means of two elevators or a flight of stairs. From this point the sightseer will get into a car just as in a regular mine, when he will be lowered through a dark shaft into the sunken park, where the mules, the miners with their lamps and picks and the coal in large veins can be seen. The palace will be two stories in height, the first being about 25 feet to the ceiling, the other reaching to the top of the structure, varying from 50 to 100 feet. In the front or Washington street tower will be the stage, 30 by 36 feet, and the main hall, with the balconies ascending direct from the stage, will give the building a seating capacity of from 3,000 to 5,000. On either side of the main room or nave of the building will be the spaces above and below for the exhibits of the surrounding counties, namely: Monroe, Appanoose, Davis, Keokuk, Mahaska, Lucas, Van Buren and Jefferson. These exhibits are intended to be industrial for the greater part.—Ottumwa (Ia.) Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Trapeze Man's Tooth Gave Way. The Delmo brothers, trapeze performers, met with a painful and perhaps fatal accident during their exhibition at the Gem theatre at El Paso. Both of the gymnasts, George and William, were on a trapeze twenty-five feet above the stage. William had his legs hooked over the bar, with his head hanging down. In his mouth he had a leather strap, which was fastened to a belt around his brother's waist. In this suspended attitude George was being spun around like a top by a movement of William's head, and at the same time the trapeze was made to swing with great velocity. Some extra force, supposed to be the result of one of the built rings getting caught, wrenched several teeth from William's mouth and thereby precipitated George's body to the floor. He lay there stark and motionless, and the audience believed him dead. After being taken home he recovered consciousness, but has not since been able to walk. The physicians, who have made a careful examination, believe he is internally injured. William Delmo is also confined with a raging fever.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Imagination and Rabies. "It is thoroughly understood now," said a well known physician, "that nervousness and fright have as much to do with precipitating evil effects from dog bite as the actual poison itself. As the dog season approaches nervous people experience what may almost be called a reign of terror on the general subject of rabies. In my practice I have known of men and women who were almost on the verge of hysteria from a trifling scratch or bite from a pet poodle, and in at least two instances I have known serious trouble to result from this species of fright. More dog bitten people have died from imagination than from the rabies, you know, and the dire outcome of sensationalism on the subject is toward an increase in the number of victims."—New York World.

Counters for Cabs. In conformity with the proposals of the Paris Municipal council, the prefect of the Seine has just issued a decree obliging all owners to provide their vehicles with counters before April 1, 1891. The counter must indicate at every moment the number of kilometers traveled over, the hour of the day and the fare due. When the cab is in motion the fare will increase in proportion to the distance, and while the vehicle is kept standing it will increase as if the cab were going at the rate of eight kilometers an hour.

Cattle in Arizona. From Nogales to the railroad, and from the Colorado to the New Mexican line in Arizona, the valleys and mesas are reported to be covered with the carcasses of cattle. For some years the ranges of Arizona have been overstocked, but no really evil consequences resulted until this dry season, and now the losses are very great. A rain recently over southern Arizona, lasting some hours, will make the grasses grow and fill the lagoons with water.—San Francisco Bulletin.

An Iron Hand. A pilgrim appeared at Allahabad, India, called a crowd about him and asked if the time had not come when the hated English should go. He was in jail in less than twenty minutes, was arraigned in court within an hour and in less than two had been sentenced to five years' imprisonment. The English don't intend to let India get the start of her again, and the pilgrim who has any questions to ask had better talk to himself.—Detroit Free Press.

That's Right. A Texas paper told a story about four people on horseback being carried into the clouds by a cyclone. A citizen doubted it and a reporter made affidavit to the facts. He was arrested for perjury, had to own up to the sensation when put on trial, and will now get a term in state prison for his funny business.—Detroit Free Press.

NEW TO-DAY.

Sept. 18 an exposition will be opened here in a building representing the great industry of this section of Iowa, coal mining, the principal material used being the product of these mines. The coal palace will be 260 feet in length, with an average width of 190 feet, the main tower lifting itself upward over 200 feet. It will be built with an architectural character of its own, and the whole structure will be veneered with coal, various unique designs being woven into the building of jet from the output of the various mines about Ottumwa. A miniature coal mine is to be one of the features of the palace. Into the mine a shaft will lead from the main tower, over 150 feet above.

The tower at its base will be over 40 feet square and be reached by means of two elevators or a flight of stairs. From this point the sightseer will get into a car just as in a regular mine, when he will be lowered through a dark shaft into the sunken park, where the mules, the miners with their lamps and picks and the coal in large veins can be seen. The palace will be two stories in height, the first being about 25 feet to the ceiling, the other reaching to the top of the structure, varying from 50 to 100 feet. In the front or Washington street tower will be the stage, 30 by 36 feet, and the main hall, with the balconies ascending direct from the stage, will give the building a seating capacity of from 3,000 to 5,000. On either side of the main room or nave of the building will be the spaces above and below for the exhibits of the surrounding counties, namely: Monroe, Appanoose, Davis, Keokuk, Mahaska, Lucas, Van Buren and Jefferson. These exhibits are intended to be industrial for the greater part.—Ottumwa (Ia.) Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Trapeze Man's Tooth Gave Way. The Delmo brothers, trapeze performers, met with a painful and perhaps fatal accident during their exhibition at the Gem theatre at El Paso. Both of the gymnasts, George and William, were on a trapeze twenty-five feet above the stage. William had his legs hooked over the bar, with his head hanging down. In his mouth he had a leather strap, which was fastened to a belt around his brother's waist. In this suspended attitude George was being spun around like a top by a movement of William's head, and at the same time the trapeze was made to swing with great velocity. Some extra force, supposed to be the result of one of the built rings getting caught, wrenched several teeth from William's mouth and thereby precipitated George's body to the floor. He lay there stark and motionless, and the audience believed him dead. After being taken home he recovered consciousness, but has not since been able to walk. The physicians, who have made a careful examination, believe he is internally injured. William Delmo is also confined with a raging fever.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Imagination and Rabies. "It is thoroughly understood now," said a well known physician, "that nervousness and fright have as much to do with precipitating evil effects from dog bite as the actual poison itself. As the dog season approaches nervous people experience what may almost be called a reign of terror on the general subject of rabies. In my practice I have known of men and women who were almost on the verge of hysteria from a trifling scratch or bite from a pet poodle, and in at least two instances I have known serious trouble to result from this species of fright. More dog bitten people have died from imagination than from the rabies, you know, and the dire outcome of sensationalism on the subject is toward an increase in the number of victims."—New York World.

Counters for Cabs. In conformity with the proposals of the Paris Municipal council, the prefect of the Seine has just issued a decree obliging all owners to provide their vehicles with counters before April 1, 1891. The counter must indicate at every moment the number of kilometers traveled over, the hour of the day and the fare due. When the cab is in motion the fare will increase in proportion to the distance, and while the vehicle is kept standing it will increase as if the cab were going at the rate of eight kilometers an hour.

Charles Stevenson, who was so seriously injured on Wednesday by being thrown from a bucking horse, is still in a precarious condition. He is conscious at intervals, but there are symptoms of inflammation of the brain, and his physicians, although hopeful, consider the patient still in a dangerous condition.

Ex-Governor Jewett Adams met with a painful accident at Quinn canyon, in Nye county, about a week ago. It seems that his men had a mare and colt in a corral and were trying to lasso the latter, when he jumped over the bars where the Governor was standing, knocking him down and badly bruising him. Though badly hurt and laid up for several days the Governor fortunately escaped with no bones broken.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. Feb. 21-91.

An Unfounded Rumor.

Last week a report reached Paradise that Mrs. Ben Crutcher, who had been residing in the Junipers, near the Owyhee, was killed. The Owyhee Avalanche of last Saturday has the following, which shows that the rumor was unfounded:

"Mrs. Mary Crutcher, who for the past two years has been living in a rather lonely part of the Junipers, was in town on Wednesday last. She has sold her stock and ranch, but will not give up her present home until late in the Fall."

Justice Court.

John Starkly contributed ten dollars yesterday for excessive indulgence in the rosy, and N. S. Sherman admitted a similar soft impeachment which will doubtless subject him to the same assessment to-day.

AN ANTI-LOTTERY MESSAGE.

The President Proposes to Close the Mails Against Lottery Companies.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—President Harrison to-day sent the following message to Congress:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives: The recent attempt to use a charter from North Dakota for a lottery company, pending the effort to obtain from the State of Louisiana a renewal of the charter of the Louisiana State Lottery, and the establishment of one or more lottery companies at Mexican towns near our border have served the good purpose of calling public attention to an evil of vast proportions.

"The vast sums of money offered in States for charters are drawn from the people of the United States, and the Government, through its mail system, is made an effective and profitable medium of intercourse between the lottery company and its victims. Use of the mails is quite as essential to the companies as State licenses. It would be practically impossible for these companies to exist if the public mails were once effectually closed against them and the prostitution of an agency only intended to serve the purposes of legitimate trade and decent social intercourse."

"Severe and effective legislation should be promptly enacted to enable the Post-office Department to purge the mails of all letters, newspapers and circulars relating to the business. It might also be necessary to so regulate the carrying of letters by express companies as to prevent the use of those agencies to maintain communication between lottery companies and their agents or customers in other cities.

"I hope that such proper powers as are necessary to that end will be given to the Post-office Department."

CANDIDATE FOR CONTROLLER.

A Person the Reveille Does not Indorse.

The Austin Reveille gives B. E. Bevins, who is said to be looking up for State Controller, the following send off:

"It we are correct in the man, he went at one time before the Republican County Convention of Humboldt county for the nomination of State Senator and was defeated; he being almost an entire stranger in the county, the party thought him too fresh to represent them in the upper house of the Legislature. Feeling somewhat sore over his defeat, he immediately went over to the Democracy and offered himself to that party. The Democracy were too sold in Humboldt county at that time to accept the offer of the Republicans and they too put a chill on him. He did talk some then of running independent, but finding no one enthusiastic enough to put up the necessary funds for him to make the fight he quit, and shortly afterwards left the county, his mining enterprise having proved a failure. We next heard of him in Eureka county and we presume this is the same individual."

The Reveille should have told where Mr. Bevins is located at present.

La Blanche in Chancery.

There is not much likelihood, says the Carson Appeal, that Dempsey will ever get a fight out of La Blanche, the Marine. A few days ago he held some race stakes for Furlong and took to the woods. Furlong swore out a warrant and landed his man in jail. He has had several offers of compromise, but declines, and the chances are that the Marine will be breaking rock in San Quentin before long. Jack is in a chancery and proposes to keep him there.

Special Deposit Surveys.

On Wednesday there were seven applications by residents of Elko county at the U. S. Surveyor General's office, for surveys of land in township 30, range 57, which is south of the town of Elko. The applications are for what are known as "special deposit" surveys—that is, the lands being unsurveyed, the pre-emptors pay for the surveys and the amounts are credited to them when they become actual purchasers, after it comes into the market.

The importance of purifying the blood cannot be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health. At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and we ask you to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. The peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation of the vegetable remedies used give to Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar curative powers. No other medicine has such a record of wonderful cures. If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other instead. It is a Peculiar Medicine, and is worthy your confidence.
